

Ice

The attention to detail in the design of Ice, coupled with the new colours and clean lines create an impression of elegance, simplicity and sophistication.

Ice is a furniture range based on the beam system construction which allows the use of shared components to create more clear space under grouped workstations. This results in an elegant and light workspace creating a climate conducive to a professional work ethic.

Ice

Ice is supported by a comprehensive selection of personal and bulk storage units designed to maximise capacity within the working area while still allowing interaction between team members.

The range is perfectly suited to areas where co-operation within a team takes precedence over hierarchy.

Desk mounted screens provide delineation between workstations and fitting a tool rail can accommodate a range of storage options and mounting brackets for monitors to provide a clear worktop. CPU holders, cable spines and power modules are also available as accessories.

▲ The under desk beam provides a raceway for cables that can pass between workstations and can be accommodated down the two part cantilever leg feeding to the floor overcoming the dangers of trailing cables.

Ice

Ice can create a multitude of modules within the office environment such as private cellular offices, open plan, informal and formal meeting areas.

Ice has the ability to change and adapt as required. When additional products are added, they dovetail perfectly with existing Ice installations.
